PICTURE FRAMES

THE PICTURE of YOUR FRIEND

You have a picture of a very dear friend that is being ruined by dust and hard wear. It may only be laying around in your room, but it is being ruined and will be worthless soon.

If you think you will value that picture sometime, why not insure its safety by having it framed.

In our shop, in the Virginia Building we have a line of picture frames that are suitable for all kinds of pictures.

FAIR DAYS NEEDED FOR MISSOURI CROPS

Monthly State Report Holds Out Hopes for Abundant Harvest.

According to the Missouri crop report issued yesterday from the office of the secretary of the State Board of Agriculture, which shows conditions July 1, most of state is in need of fair and warmer weather. However, the report as a whole holds out hope for an abundant harvest. The report in part follows:

"At Columbia the rainfall for June was 9.11 inches as compared with 4.38 inches normal for the month. The highest temperature was 89, on June 5, and the mean temperature for the month 69.6.

"In many parts of the state heavy rains and overflows from streams caused great loss to growing crops. Where a low condition of a crop is reported it is due, in practically every instance, to this cause. With characteristic pluck and energy farmers have seized upon every opportunity to cultivate their fields and to rush harvest work. Every sunny day has been taken advantage of. Practically all of the correspondents are agreed that the crop outlook, with favorable weather to follow, is far more promising than that of a year ago.

Good Weather Will Help Corn.
"The condition of corn on July 1 was 76 for the state as compared with 81 one year ago and 82.5 as the 10-year average. With ten days or two weeks of favorable weather, corn can easily show an improvement of 10 to 15 points. In 1910 when the July 1 condition of corn was the same as for the present year, the state made an average yield of 32.4 bushels as compared with the 10-year average of 28.3 bushels.

"Almost two-thirds of the Missouri wheat crop—61 per cent—has been harvested. Harvesting has been done with great difficulty, owing to soft fields and to much down wheat. The preliminary estimate as made by correspondents for the state wheat yield is 13.2 bushels as compared with a preliminary estimate of 17.1 for the 1914 crop. This would indicate a yield of between 30,000,000 and 35,000,000 bushels for the state. While the original wheat acreage for the present harvest was 7 per cent greater than that of 1914, the probability is that this gain will be offset by the abandoned and overflow acreage.

Oats Crop Promises Well.

"The Missouri oat crop is fine. The condition is 96. One year ago condition of oats for the state was 56.

"Timothy meadows show much improvement over one month ago, although there is complaint of white top and other weeds. Timothy condition for the state is 92. Condition of clover is 92 for the state, with an

4TH OF JULY IN EARLY DAYS; ITS PLACE IN OUR HISTORY

"I am apt to believe," wrote John Adams to his wife on the day of the signing of the Declaration of Independence, "that this day will be celebrated by succeeding generations as the great anniversary festival. It ought to be solemnized with pomp and parade, with show, games, sports, guns, bells, bonfires and illuminations from one end of this continent to the other, from this time forward forevermore."

The county of Boone has played its part in the fulfillment of this prophecy, for it began to celebrate the Fourth of July as far back as 1831. This first celebration, a picnic, was held in a pasture near Captain David Gordon's spring. There was not any long set program, as in the years which followed. A basket dinner was served, and in the afternoon rain drove the crowd to the courthouse, where impromptu speeches were made.

Since this was at a time when many of the countries of the world had just passed through the throes of revolution, the revolutionary spirit was reflected in the subjects: "The South American Republics," "Poland," "Greece," "The American Revolution" and "The American Fair."

But the celebration in Columbia which awakened the most interests, not only in Columbia but in the state at large, was in 1840, when the cornerstone of the first building of the University was laid.

When Partisanship Was Keen.
By 1842, the reading of the Declaration of Independence had been added to the program, and after this volunteer toasts were given. That this was a time when political partisanship was rife is evidenced by the charter of the toasts: By P. R. Parks, "The Blind Man on the Wayside—May He Anoint His Eyes With Clay and Receive His Sight!" W. B. Lenoir, "A Porcupine Saddle, Long Stirrups and a Hard Trotting Horse for Tyler!" A Guest, "The University—May Its Enemies, and Particularly the Editor at Independence, Live on Parched Corn and Darn His Own Socks!" R. F. Todd, "Our State University—Our Pride and Boast—Palsied Be the Hand or Tongue That Would Do or Say Anything to Produce Jealousy or Dissension Among the Good People of This Land in Relation to Its Usefulness! An Editor Somewhere in Jackson County has Attempted This Thing—May He Have The Gout in His Toes, and Chills in His Fingers When He May Attempt Another Such Essay!"

By the time the next fourth had rolled around, the main building of the University had been completed, under the Presidency of Doctor S. S. Laws, and so, on July 4, 1843, the University was formally dedicated with much pomp and ceremony.

In the last few years there has been little formal celebration of the fourth in Columbia, and safe and sane individual merry-making has taken the place of the carnage that once marked the day.

Day Notable for Many Reasons.
Few days in American history have been as important as July 4. Great men as well as a great country were born on that day, and it also marks the anniversary of the death of three of our presidents.

On July 4 in 1636 Roger Williams and his little band of followers founded the town of Providence, R. I. Because of their belief that the church should not dictate in civil affairs, they had been forced to leave the settlements in Massachusetts.

One hundred and forty years later, on the same day, our forefathers declared their independence of England.

Nathaniel Hawthorne, one of America's master authors, was born on estimated average yield of 1.3 tons per acre. Quality of hay is 85; acreage, 102. Condition of alfalfa is 92; estimated yield for first cuttings is 1.2 tons per acre; acreage, 116. Cotton acreage as compared with last year is reported at 62; condition, 69. Flax acreage is 85; condition, 80. Tobacco acreage, 86; condition, 87. Broom corn acreage is 92, condition 95. Cowpea acreage is 91. Potato condition is 92, the crop being the best for several years, but there is complaint of potatoes rotting. Prairie hay as compared with last year is 95; condition, 93. Rye acreage, 95; barley acreage, 95.

"Gardens are good and vegetables of all kinds abundant. Condition is reported at 97. Fruit outlook is generally good. Condition of apples is 74 for the state. The northern half of the state will have but few peaches, while the southern half reports condition of peaches at 82, with an abundant harvest in the commercial peach belt.

"Seldom, if ever, have Missouri pastures been better. Condition of pastures for the state is 99 as compared with 49 one year ago."

Fifty years after the Declaration of Independence two of our former Presidents died. Thomas Jefferson, author of the declaration, and the third President of the United States, died July 4, 1826, at his home in Virginia. By a strange coincidence John Adams, who followed Washington into the Presidency, died on the same day in Massachusetts.

Out in Pittsburgh, on the day these two illustrious statesmen died, was born a man who was to leave the world some of the greatest songs ever written. His name was Stephens Collins Foster. Among his songs are "My Old Kentucky Home," "Massa's in the Cold, Cold Ground," "Swanee River," "O Susannah" and "Old Black Joe."

Beginning of the Erie Canal.
After months of ridicule in 1817, Governor Clinton of New York finally announced the beginning of work on the Erie canal from Buffalo to Albany. On July 4 of that year, the governor turned the first spadeful of dirt that started the project.

In 1828, July 4 was chosen as the date for the beginning of the Baltimore and Ohio railroad which connected the Ohio river valley with Baltimore. On the same day in 1848 Matthew Emery, architect and builder, prepared and laid the cornerstone of Washington's monument which for years was the highest stone work in the world.

This famous day also marked one of the turning points in the Civil War. General Grant started a siege of Vicksburg in May, 1862, and after almost two months of desperate fighting on July 4 the Confederates surrendered. This victory broke the rebellion in the west and made it possible to transfer Grant to the head of the army in the east.

LONG RESIGNS AS ADVISER

University Alumnus Quits Farm Post in Johnson County.

C. M. Long, farm adviser for Johnson County for three years, has resigned. He gave no reason.

Mr. Long was the first adviser employed by Johnson County. He inaugurated the farmers' annual roundup held yesterday in Warrensburg, an idea which many counties in Missouri, Illinois and Kansas have copied.

Mr. Long is an alumnus of the University of Missouri, B. S. in Agriculture '05, M. S. '06.
